Why We Advertise

We advertise because of the knowledge that is daily requested by health-seekers, as to what Chiropractic can do for this, that or the other form of ailment. The lack of information, as to the merits, or applicability, of our science to the various ailments the human body is heir to, is almost pathetic. In fact, the public has not even begun to comprehend the scope of the most progressive health science in the world today, or that they have in their very grasp the solution to their health problems.

It is only through the printed word that we can reach those who are not fortunate enough to personally know, that after years of medical failure, many have found health through the Chiropractic of today.

Health is the most valuable asset in the world. Yet, how few people possess it? Frankly, we believe there is not a family but what some member therein is constantly ailing, and going from bad to worse, in spite of the doctor. Those few who overcome (?) the ailments find at a later date that a new disease has them within its grasp. They consequently imagine themselves a victim of circumstances, little realizing that there is NOT a new dis-ease, but the old one cropping up in a different location, therefore given a different name.

Isn't it about time, Mr. and Mrs. Public, that you should be informed that there is a science that can and does remove the cause of dis-ease? That there is a science that welcomes investigation, even to the extent of the most crucial tests? Chiropractic has millions of adherents, and only for one reason, and that is because our science brought them back to health and happiness after all other methods had failed them. These millions are gradually educating others to the marvelous merits of Chiropractic. But why withhold from the needlessly sick, suffering and dying, the information that would bring them back to health, until such time as some Good Samaritan informs them by word of mouth, when it is too late.

Fortunately, many more in our profession have the intestinal fortitude to tell the world what they have to offer, irrespective of what is supposed to be ethics.

The fortunate man is the one who has the mental power to change from the old to the new, for he has come to the realization that there is only one thing constant on this earth, and that is change. He that fears change is constantly lagging behind. In matters of health, goes to his grave little realizing that there is a new science that is revolutionizing the healing art because it removes the cause of dis-ease rather than only the effects temporarily.
