WINSTON-SALEM JOURNAL

—No. 281

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., FRIDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 25, 1972

Page 1

Chickens Being Held After Chemical Found

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 200,000 chickens slaughtered in Maine for the consumer market are being held in two plants after residues of an industrial chemical called PCB were found in test samples, the Agriculture Department disclosed Thursday.

Laboratory experiments have shown PCB chemicals can produce skin ailments in humans and liver and birth defects in some test animals.

MONS 069864