Re: Hannah vs.
Monteagle Silo Co., et al

Dear Lon:

This is to advise that the Monteagle Silo people have now completed the cleaning of silo #2 and Mr. Hannah has received a report from the State that silo #1 is now free from any contamination.

Mr. Hannah says further that it will be approximately 4-5 months before the State will make any further tests on silo #2 due to the fact that at present silo #2 is empty and it will be at least 2-3 months before any grain will be stored therein and then, as I understand it, the grain has to stay in the silo for a month or so before the State will make any tests for contamination.

This last test for contamination to be made by the State is the only thing remaining before we will be able to close this matter completely and assuming that silo #2 passes the test for contamination, we can then conclude this matter by giving your clients a full and complete release and they paying to Mr. Hannah the sum of $300.00 for expenses as heretofore agreed.

I will be in touch with you as soon as I have any further information.

With kindest personal regards, I am,

Yours truly,

D. C. Lee
