STYLE-WRITING IS ATTRACTIVE AS NEW WOMEN'S PROFESSION

PARIS, April 14 (AP)—Style writing is an up and coming profession for women which has developed since the war.

More than 100 resident style scribes now chronicle the changes in women's styles originating in Paris. All but two are women.

Some of the best known fashion writers of the United States pay income taxes on monthly salaries of four figures.

Fifty per cent of the total resident style writing group are Americans working for United States magazines, newspapers or syndicates. English fashion correspondents rank second in number and German writers come third.

Strangely enough there are few French women engaged in writing for French publications. French daily papers print almost no news of women's styles.

Prior to 1914 less than half a dozen people sent accurate and timely style news from Paris.

Dressmakers who suspected that their styles had been "written up" punished the offending writer by refusing admission to their showings.

Only one great prewar couturier appreciated the value of publicity. He was Paul Poiret who built up largely through newspapers, one of the big names.

Only two houses hold out against the established custom of press showings. They are Chanel and Vionnet. Madame Chanel has a no-style-writers-admitted policy. Madeleine Vionnet sends invitations to the press group a month after her new styles have been launched.

Coast League Nines Enter Second Round

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14. (AP)—The coast league baseball season slid into its second week today with the embattled clubs shifting their scores of attack. The Los Angeles Angels continued to head the standings column with Portland serving as the foundation.

Rain interfered with two Sunday games but passed by two roaring double headers in which the Seals trounced the Indians, 11 to 3 and 6 to 1 in San Francisco and the Oaks and Stars divided the other across the bay, the afternoon setto running to 11 innings. Hollywood took the opener 10 to 5 but the Oakland machine got warmed up in the second, taking it 3 to 2.

Menlo Tracksters In Win Over Ignatians

Scoring a win in the relay to clinch the meet in their favor Menlo Junior College tracksters returned from San Francisco Saturday night with a 67½ to 54½ victory over freshman stars of St. Ignatius College. The meet was held at the Ignatian field and was closely contested until the final events, when Menlo took a first and third in the low hurdles and won the relay. Bud Deacon of Menlo was high point man of the meet with four second places.

Stockton High Comes Back In Pool Victory

After nearly defeating the Palo Alto Union High School basketball team and thus to spoil its spotless record last year, the Tarzans of Stockton High School went further Saturday in their own pool, for they defeated the Viking swimmers by a 55-36 count. The biggest surprise of the meet for the Palo Alto boys came when Houser, Stockton breast stroke man, beat out Capt. Dick Kingham of Palo Alto for first in the 100-yard event, marking the first time this year the fast Viking man has been beaten.
