...tical all-outer.

He spends around 5 per cent of his income for war bonds and stamps, always cleans his plate, wasting no food, never drives faster than 40. He is an air raid warden or has some volunteer defense job, writes regularly to a man in the armed forces abroad, admonishes others not to repeat rumors or military information, tries to keep fit with hikes or other exercise. When he hears about work stoppage he digs into his own job a little harder. He contributed to the USO last month and this month the Red Cross is on his list.

Now the test questions. Rate yourself from zero to 10 according to your idea of how well you are.

1 Avoiding waste of all kind, in the kitchen, factory, on the highway, everywhere.

2 Buying war bonds and stamps with every penny you can spare

3 Taking part in civilian defense, Red Cross or other voluntary war work.

4 Serving in silence, guarding vital war information and supressing and refusing to pass on wild rumors.

5 Extending assistance and hospitality to our armed forces

8 Contributing willingly to worth - while organizations such as the USO, Red Cross and navy relief.

9 Maintaining a cooperative attitude toward all war-time regulations, especially those measures that tend to disrupt your way of life.

10 Utilizing to the best of your ability other opportunities for war activity.

A perfect all-outer would score 100. A women's organization averaged 75. Palo Alto business men
