Jack, I discussed this week the results of the recent chest X-ray and ventilation exams on the first five employees to be re-tested from the Akron joint systems operation. While the new studies are more favorable than the previous ones, there is still some doubt as to how to proceed with the case of Francis McCargar.

In the comment section of the report for Francis McCargar, the doctor indicates a suspicion that this man has had prior occupational exposure which may have contributed to the condition found in the exam. In order to get a little clearer picture of how to proceed, we would like a work history investigation completed on this employee.

This work history should include all areas of employment while with Georgia-Pacific; also, any information we can get on employment prior to working for Georgia-Pacific (who he worked for, what job classifications he had worked in and what industrial exposure he may have had with prior employers). Anything we can do to get a complete work history on this man will be beneficial later on in how we handle the pulmonary emphysema condition of this employee. Let me know if you have any problems with this investigation.
