They will be more than happy to help you with any cavities that you incur as a result of the candy that you get in our court.

(Whereupon, laughter ensued.)

THE COURT: Have a seat, please, Mr. Shellenberger.

Mr. Smith, would you like to identify when this deposition was taken of Mr. Hill and in what context, please.

MR. SMITH: I would be happy to, Your Honor.

This is a deposition of Ronald W. Hill taken on August 25, 1987, in the case of Ronald Hill versus Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corporation in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Camden County.

THE COURT: Before you begin. Ladies and gentlemen, I mentioned to you earlier that you would have some depositions that would be read in this fashion. That is because the individual giving the deposition is unavailable to testify live, so they rely on prior recorded testimony of that individual.
