This maintenance engineer is

"Seveneering" with R/M

to satisfy all his gasketing requirements

He knows that he can rely on his distributor for R/M gasket materials that have uniform physical properties, excellent aging qualities and good cutting characteristics from lot to lot no matter how often he replenishes his stock. Among the outstanding gasket materials found in Type #6 of the R/M Big 7 Packing Types are the following:

R/M K 68®—an asbestos-Neoprene combination with no sulfur—for use on equipment handling hot oils and solvents of the gasoline and toluol types.

R/M No. 650 Pyroid®—compressed asbestos sheet with great flexibility and tensile strength—for use against oil, steam (both saturated and superheated), acids, alkalis and gasoline-type solvents.

R/M No. 625—a high-quality red rubber sheet—for use in water, air and steam service. Also for food processing and packaging equipment.

R/M Neoprene Sheet—formulated in a wide range of hardness and density—for oils and solvents, except chlorinated, aromatic and Ketone types.

R/M Buna-N Sheet—in a wide range of hardness and density—for paint and lacquer solvents, chlorinated and aromatic type fluids, and aliphatic solvents.

Teflon*—has excellent resistance to acids, solvents and corrosive liquids in the temperature range of −100 to + 500°F—can be used alone or as an envelope with any of the sheets mentioned above.

* Registered trademark for Du Pont fluorocarbon resins

Gasket materials are only one of the Big 7 Packing Types—whatever your packing requirements, join the thousands of maintenance men "Seveneering" with R/M. They know R/M's Big 7 Packings are engineered to do the job without compromise.
