

Victor sealing products

There are three basic areas in Victor's Robinson facility... raw materials manufacturing, gasket manufacturing and kit packaging. The materials store produces sheets of high quality gasket material in specified gauges and sends it to the gasket manufacturing store where it is blanked and packed.

Victor's kit packaging program was moved to Robinson in 1972. The magnitude of the program dictated that a computerized information system be established to coordinate customer orders with inventories of components and purchased parts. This system was instrumental in assuring scheduled delivery of kits. We offer our customers even more flexibility by packaging our gaskets to their market requirements, eliminating the added costs of maintaining their own packaging operation. The people at Robinson are dedicated to quality, service and flexibility. They work closely with customers in anticipating future requirements to maintain quality production schedule.
