about a boiler riveter, so it was basically boiler and insulation worker who handled asbestos products as a secondary user.

Sort of a secondary user, yes.

Q Now, we are going to hear some more of your testimony about the various types of studies.

Could you quickly define for the jury, is there a thing known as a case report?

A Yeah. A case report is just an observation that might be published in the literature, and this is a case of disease that the author is going to report on, they describe the pathology, they describe the case, the occupation and just report on the case, and surmise that it might be related to exposure.

Q Now, is there also something known as an epidemiological or cohort study?

A Yes. But before you get there, you have got a case series. This is not a single case. This report is in the analysis of 100 cases, so it is a significant piece.

There are all different epidemiologic
