I have just been informed by Mr. McCutchan that no report of the PCB concentration in the Krummrich employees' blood has reached the Personnel Department. I am sending you a Xerox copy of the letter I wrote the Government agency which was involved in this work. As you can see, a copy went to the Medical Department at Krummrich.

I don't know what we can tell people except that the majority of them had 0; 5 had .1 ppm and 6 had a little bit higher. These concentrations are well under what one would expect to find if we had looked for DDT in these people.

Certainly these traces of PCB in the blood are not harming the individuals' health as the rest of their examinations were entirely negative.

If you have any further questions, please let me know.
