EX-DANZIG LEADER SAYS U. S. REVOLT EXPECTED BY HITLER

SACRAMENTO — (UP) — Adolf Hitler believed the United States was on the brink of bloody revolution when Germany withdrew from the League of Nations and that there was no danger of war between Britain and the United States, waging war on the rest of the world, Rauschning testified today at the Friends of Progress subversive activities trial.

Dr. Hermann Rauschning, former nazi peasant leader of the Danzig free state and author of "The Revolution of Nihilism," said he conferred at the reichs chancellory in Berlin in those days with Hitler after Germany withdrew from the league.

NO NEED TO WORRY

Rauschning said he was fearful of the future of his country but that Hitler told him there was no reason to worry.

He quoted the fuehrer as saying neither Great Britain nor the United States would be able to enter a new war and that Germany would be able to overthrow Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Rauschning, under questioning of Warren Olney, deputy attorney general, said Hitler told him the United States never again would war against Germany.

"Hitler said America is on the border of a bloody revolution that sooner or later will break out," Rauschning asserted.

"He then told me of the methods to bring on revolution. He said it was not so important to build up military power that most important weapon was a political weapon. Breaking down organization and morale, fostering the group against another group, destroying belief in leaders and building in itself one group against another."
