Dear Don,

FF

We should like to refer to your memo to Bob Keller dated February 15th concerning the Therminol/Santotherm contamination of cooking oil at the Smiths Potato Crisps factory in Holland. Have you had any reports from the laboratory yet as to whether this contamination can be detected?

This question of Santotherm detection in cooking oil is still tending to hold back sales in the food process industry in Europe, and we look forward to receiving some early news from you.

Best wishes,

D.Wood.
