and selling Unarcoboard at the time it acquired the Bloomington facility. OCF began to manufacture and distribute Unarco Fyrcor at the time it acquired Chembest in 1970.

In a supplement to the same interrogatory answer number 1, OCF stated on June 27, 1952, OCF purchased certain assets of the marine engineering and supply company.

OCF operated these assets under the name Fiberglass Engineering and Supply Company which came to be known as the contracting and supply division and eventually the contracting division of Owens-Corning Fiberglas.

In response to admission request number 110, OCF admits that it had contracting units which operated as the contracting division of OCF from January 1950 until February 1987 when this division was sold.

Now I am jumping back to Owens-Illinois. This is their response to interrogatory number 5.

In response to our question about what
