Re: Kensington Report

Dear Sirs:

Two volumes of the Kensington report have been received from the bindery and the remaining one will be in hand by Wednesday. It is my hope that next Monday, December 6th, may be a good day for me to present this report to you and to discuss some of its findings. It is of course not absolutely necessary that this report be presented in person, since the report speaks for itself. No less, it would be our preference to do so, chiefly because many changes are desirable in the Kensington Plants in order to achieve satisfactory safeguarding of workers against industrial diseases. It is thought that possibly some additional impetus may be given to these matters if discussed at the time of the first appearance of the record of the investigation.

Therefore, will some one of the gentlemen addressed in this communication please advise me as to what your pleasure may be as to my coming down next Monday or at some later time or at all?

Very truly yours,

Carey P. McCord, M.D.
Medical Director.
