Publication on Yusho (PCB)

I am forwarding for your perusal the copy of "The Third Reports of the Study on "Yusho" (PCB Poisoning)" which Mr. Uneno so kindly provided.

This is a series of technical presentations with the early ones describing various animal toxicity or residue studies. The articles relating to humans begin on Page 387 and continue through Page 415.

I believe Dr. Herb Blumenthal's comments were based on the article beginning on Page 392 where the last sentence in the English translation states: "Also, there was no significant difference in the grading according to severity of skin lesions in 1971 compared to that of 1970 and 1969".

I have not made copies of this document, so you may want to return it to us for our files after looking through it.
