I have checked into the Pydraul Selector matter as we discussed it on Tuesday. In June, 1966, literature received 3400 Pydraul Selectors. They report that they are now out of stock. This breaks down to around 200 Selectors used per month.

You can figure on a minimum of two weeks for reprinting the Selector depending on the amount of changes. A ~~XXXX~~ safer figure would be three weeks to a month.

No chance of getting any of the 40 copies that George Mack received. They are distributed.

REPLY

Would appreciate your keeping me advised on your progress with the revisions on the present Selector and your progress on the new one that will include 312.

If I can be of any assistance, please call.
