PATENT CLEARANCE

A production trial run of asbestos millboard has been made on the Erie Chemical plant's Hatschek machine wherein the normal portland cement binder was replaced by starch. In composition, this starch-bound millboard is very similar to asbestos roofing felt which has been produced for many years on the cylinder paper machine at Erie. A clearance to produce this product is requested.

You have requested patent clearance for manufacture and sale of asbestos millboard using starch binder rather than Portland cement. We understand this material is substantially similar in composition to a conventional roofing felt which has been produced for many years and that the proposed starch-bound millboard will be a very low volume product. In view of this the risk of any substantial infringement problem appears minimal. We are accordingly granting the requested clearance for manufacture and sale of this product in the United States.
