From where will the invasion come? This question now has many milons guessing the world over, none in more hectic fashion than der fuehrer himself. Herald readers are offered this outline of the continent for their own use as armchair generals, in plotting the invasion path, and keeping track of it after it starts. Today the armies in Italy are going all out in their attack against the German divisions guarding the "soft underbelly" of Europe. Vast armies and air fleets await the signal in England and Russia to invade the Reich from east and west. Great events portend.

Seaside Home Is Destroyed By Fire in Spite of Battle

A fire of unknown origin destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shaw of Seaside last night at 10:45, after a fight by two fire departments lasting an hour and fifteen minutes, according to Seaside Fire Chief, A. J. Puglizevich. The Naval Airport truck under the direction of fire chief Eugene Zwolinski responded and reached the scene first.

The house, valued at $700, and furniture valued at $800 were almost totally demolished. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, who were just in the process of buying the property from Nick Mikel, were away in Santa Cruz at the time the blaze started. They had been absent from home for a week, and have not yet been contacted and notified.

Chief Puglizevich commended highly the efficient work of the assisting Airport department, and said, "People must be warned in our region, of the dangers of crowding streets during such an emergency. It is natural enough that people run to fires, but in this particular case, the crowd was so close in, and so careless, that the efficiency of the fire department was jeopardized. Not only that, but there was a near accident when the truck barely missed hitting someone who wandered into the road without regard to safety. The citizen who endangers our efficiency, endangers himself."
