about perhaps what or how he got his mesothelioma.

You will recall that he had a conversation with his son, as well as with Mr. Levine or Dr. Moko and basically said, which is in the medical records for you to see in evidence, that he felt that his mesothelioma had been developed when he had asbestos exposure as a result of working back in 1948 at the post office garage.

Dr. Fowler who is an industrial hygienist also testified with respect to Mr. Wood's exposure.

What he told us was that he believed his opinion was that Mr. Wood was occupationally exposed to asbestos from working at the post office during the beginning years of 1948 to 1952.

And he discussed the articles that he had reviewed, and they were up on the screen basically showing the amounts of dust that comes as a result of grinding, sanding, beveling, using the air hose, any way that you can manipulate the brake either through installation or through removal.

And he also told you that as an industrial
