"White Pebbles" in Aroclor 1260

In loading a tank car recently we noticed several small pieces of a white material floating on the product. It was found that the material was plastic from the core of our filter paks which were disintegrating from heat.

I am sure that the white "pebbles" seen in the car of Aroclor 1260 sent to GE, Pittsfield, came from a similar source. We are looking for a filter-pak which can better tolerate our loading temperatures.
