THE DOCTOR

Asbestos: Is it really harmful?

I HAVE heard that people who work with asbestos have health troubles. Should I stop using asbestos for the filtration of wine?—J.B., Fulwell.

A GOOD question. The problem with asbestos arises in people who inhale the dust. There is a high incidence of cancer of the lung in these cases.

I have heard of no cases of stomach cancer, but as a wine maker myself, I have stopped using asbestos just in case.

You should make your wine in such a way that it clears itself.
