ISRI Comments EPA Reg Reform 170515.pdf

Samantha: Again, it was a pleasure speaking with you back in early May about the EPA's regulatory reform initiative. (I have attached ISRI's submitted comments for your convenience). Would you possibly be available to visit with several of the U.S.'s largest scrap (steel) recycling company's CEOs at our offices on June 21st to discuss very generally EPA's regulatory reform efforts? Our meetings begin at 8:00 am and conclude at 3:00 pm. We would gladly accommodate your hectic schedule. The meeting will be moderated by Haley Barbour. My members are extremely excited about EPA's efforts to review cumbersome and in some cases, unnecessary regulations. Please let me know if you could squeeze us in for any amount of time you could spare. Thank you so much for your consideration. All the best, Billy

PS: The scrapyard tour invitation is always open for you and others at EPA anytime/any place.

Voice of the Recycling Industry™

30th
Anniversary
1987-2017

The Institute of Scrap Recycling Industries, Inc. (ISRI) is the "Voice of the Recycling Industry." ISRI and its 21 chapters represent approximately 1,300 companies operating in nearly 4,000 locations in the U.S. and 34 countries worldwide that process, broker, and consume scrap commodities, including metals, paper, plastics, glass, rubber, electronics, and textiles. With headquarters in Washington, DC, ISRI provides education, advocacy, safety and compliance training, and promotes public awareness of the vital role recycling plays in the U.S. economy, global trade, the environment and sustainable development. Generating more than $105 billion annually in U.S. economic activity, the scrap recycling industry provides nearly half a million Americans with good jobs.
