mesothelioma. We know that it came from asbestos. We know that Mr. Vandergucht was exposed to pipecovering and block at new construction, and that is the key, because at new construction everybody is there, they are all working. The dust is everywhere. He is breathing it.

So why is Owens-Illinois and Owens-Corning Fiberglas here as defendants?

Well, I will tell you why. Kaylo. Say it in your mind, Kaylo. By the end of this trial, you will know that word. It is kind of an odd word. It is a word that sticks in your mind. It is a word that you will all remember when this trial is over.

Kaylo was a form of pipecovering and block. That is what it was called. It was called Kaylo.

Between 1943 and 1958, Owens-Illinois, one of the defendants in Mr. Vandergucht's case, made Kaylo. They made it.

From 1953 until 1958 for those five years while it is being made by Owens-Illinois, Owens-Corning Fiberglas is distributing it. They are
