Farmers' Housing Problem Stressed

FRESNO (INS) — Farmers were warned yesterday that "agriculture is still faced with the serious housing problem that has confronted farmers in recent years."

L. C. Unger, president of the Associated Farmers of Fresno County, who delivered the warning, urged all farmers to begin laying plans now for the housing of farm labor during the coming harvest.

pipes that may run through the attic." A check of basements and other storage places to dispose of any unwanted accumulation of ashes, wood, papers, and other combustible materials was recommended by Smith.

"If you are redecorating the interior of your home be sure to watch paint, oils and oily rags very carefully, and at night have them outside of the house if possible," Fire Chief Smith cautioned. "Also see that paint cans are kept away from stoves or open flames and are tightly closed when not in use.

"Vent pipes and flues have accumulated carbon and dust in substantial quantities during the winter months and should be cleaned out now so that there will be no danger in event of occasional use during the summer. If there are any breaks in any flues have them repaired immediately as these constitute a serious hazard," the chief continued.

For vacationists he urged that attention be given to turning off pilot lights on stoves, automatic water heaters and other appliances before leaving. He sug-

Safety theaters are showing specific film trailers urging cooperation with the drive and merchants throughout the area are displaying window streamers and window cards to remind the public to participate in the Junior Chamber sponsored campaign to beautify the city and improve the standards of health and safety.

The Junior Chamber issued a statement yesterday reminding the public that all their materials and labor which are necessary in such a program, no matter how expensive it may be, can be purchased in Vallejo and urged local residents to patronize Vallejo stores.

"Paints, wallpapers, lumber, hardware, roofing, plumbing, landscaping materials and everything you might require can be easily found here at prices favorably comparable to other cities," stated Russell Baker, campaign chairman.

"And if you don't want to do the work yourself there are contractors in every field ready to give you prompt and courteous service. If you wish suggestions for names call the office of the Chambers of Commerce at 3-6408.
