Dear Sir:

Dear Dr. Hackett:

Your recent letter to Doctor Verweil was received in his absence while on a business trip and in my absence due to an attack of flu.

I am sorry that we cannot give you a definite date at this time as to when the abstract report will be in the hands of the publisher. Doctor Verweil will be in Washington most of next week and the following week. He wishes to give his personal attention to the selection of tissue sections which we wish to photograph for inclusion in the report. Since the abstract paper will appear in a scientific publication, we believe it necessary to include more illustrations of histologic sections than were given in the report submitted to the commission.

Doctor Verweil is very much concerned about the further delay, but it has been unavoidable. I know that as soon as his abstracts will permit he will give the matter his immediate attention.

Sincerely yours,

(s) William E. Kilian
