Dear Emmet:

At a recent meeting of Food and Drug officials here in Cincinnati, there was some discussion about the fact that milk was being kept from the market because of contamination with Arochlor. I had earlier learned of this from my milk program in the City, but I wondered what Monsanto is doing about the situation. I am aware that there was never any attempt to get a label for Arochlor for use in silos but apparently the material has been used and I wondered what, if any, action the Company is taking at this point.

Best personal regards.

Sincerely,

Mitchell R. Zavon, M.D.
