

ASPCA agent Cal Benfield drops lasso over little dog shivering on ledge of Prince Hall Masonic Temple in uptown New York. No one could explain how the pooch got on the ledge 60-feet above street level and several feet below the roof. Nobody claimed the dog when Benfield finally got him down and it was taken to the animal shelter.

For Monterey Adobe

Mrs. Harry W. Toulmin today had the personal thanks of the governor of California for her generous gift of a historic adobe to the people of the state.

Mrs. Toulmin last month deeded her home, the famous Thomas O. Larkin House at Jefferson and Calle Principal in Monterey, to the State Division of Beaches and Parks.

The two-story adobe house, where Mrs. Toulmin has made her home for many years, was also the home of her grandfather, Thomas O. Larkin, first and only American consul stationed at Monterey. It is furnished with valuable furniture of the type used in Monterey under the Mexican and early American periods.

Following is the letter addressed to Mrs. Toulmin by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight:

"The California State Park Commission has informed me of your generous action in deeding the historic Larkin House to the State of California. This will indeed be an important element in our program at Monterey, setting forth to our citizens the in-California.

"The role that your grandfather, Thomas O. Larkin, played in the winning of this state for the nation was of the utmost importance in a crucial period of our history. This structure, with the added charm that your occupancy has given it and the beau-with which you have adorned it, make the Larkin House an object of great interest to our citizens, not only in California, but throughout the United States. It is both a historic and a cultural monument.

"Please accept my sincere thanks for your generous and public - spirited action."

Soldier Pleads Guilty To Morals Charge

Hubert Lee Jordan, 21-year-old military policeman at Fort Ord, yesterday pleaded guilty in Monterey Municipal Court to two charges of indecently exposing himself to Marina school girls.

He was ordered by Judge Ray Baugh to spend 130 days at the county work farm with 100 days suspended for three years on condition of good behavior. Jordan was arrested by the sheriff's office.

targets would be located, is unrealistic and illogical.

"On the one hand, it will be desirable for the Army in many instances to locate its guided missile firing points well to the rear for both logistic and security reasons. On the other hand, it is not possible intelligently to establish in advance the depth behind the enemy lines within which the targets required to be covered by the Army would be located, for that depth will vary with a number of factors which cannot be determined accurately in advance and may be influenced by the development of new weapons and other technological advances. . . .

"The restrictions imposed by the Wilson Memorandum likewise deny the Army other important contributions in the missile field which are now on the horizon and which promise great assistance to our Army forces in carrying out more efficiently their assigned missions.

"In addition to destroying personnel, materiel, communications, supplies and other targets, ground-launched missiles have the potential of providing extremely valuable vehicles for mapping, and visual, photo and radar reconnaissance. Although the art of employing guided missiles for target location and identification is in its infancy, its potentialities appear unlimited.

"It is entirely possible that eventually ground-controlled missiles, up to almost any range, will be sent over the lines and returned on a pre-set course. Further, ground-launched guided missiles equipped with television or other electronic devices may, without returning, be able to relay indispensable intelligence to the ground commander. A further potentiality is the development of transport or cargo guided missiles for the delivery of troops, materiel and supplies. . ."
