Dear Customer:

Our records show that our company constructed a silo on your farm in the year 196_. We were pleased to have had the opportunity to serve you because we value your patronage and we hope that your Monteagle silo has been an asset to you. However, we are writing you because we are concerned about the coating which was used to seal the plaster joints in the interior of your silo. That coating contains an ingredient called polychlorinated biphenyl.

Some state agencies have taken the position that the polychlorinated biphenol contaminates the silage, or at least is a potential contaminant. However, ~~we have received other information which indicates~~ it has not been definitely established that there is lack of certainty about whether the amount of polychlorinated biphenol ~~which might~~ likely to get into cows' milk from our product is ~~not~~ harmful. We are not certain ~~which of these points of view~~ is correct, but we do want to inform our valuable customers, such as you, about the matter. We also recommend that you have a sample of your silo coating and a sample of any silage you may be storing in your silo analyzed for polychlorinated biphenol content by a qualified laboratory.

Very truly yours,

Monteagle Silo Co., Inc.
