Growth Energy Welcomes President Trump's Support for E15

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Growth Energy CEO Emily Skor today applauded President Trump's commitment to lifting outdated Reid Vapor Pressure (RVP) limits on summer-time sales of E15 without tying RVP relief to any refinery-backed limits on Renewable Identification Numbers (RINs) and the Renewable Fuel Standard (RFS).

"We applaud President Trump for embracing a common-sense fix to create a level playing field for cleaner, more affordable fuel options during the summer driving season. The White House clearly understands that RVP relief will expand a growing market for America's farmers while letting consumers pick the fuel of their choice.

"This simple fix allows retailers to offer better options alongside traditional blends all year long."
