Dear Doctor Kehoe:

Thank you for your letter of August 5. I want to bother you a bit further with this problem. Our Plant at St. Louis is a very small one employing only about 125 to 150 people and we do not have any laboratory there. Is there any reason why we should not experience satisfactory results if we have slides prepared and stained at St. Louis and shipped to us here for microscopic examination? As far as we can see this would probably prove satisfactory but I would be very grateful for your opinion.

Sincerely yours

I. Dent Jenkins
