refrigeration systems have made it possible to take fish as long distances from the canneries and transport them to these bases, according to Scofield.

Scofield has been in the employ of the California Fish and Game commission for the past 10 years and organized the department of which he is now the active head. He is recognized as an international authority upon fisheries matters. He is a graduate of Leland Stanford University.

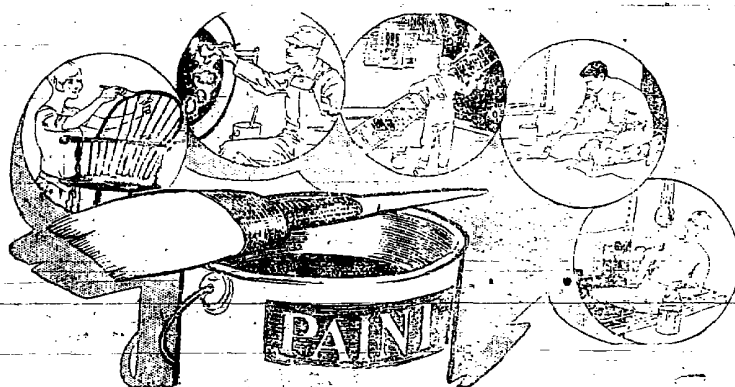

One of the most complete programs of fish conservation in the known world has been built up under Scofield's direction.

Everyone thinks of Colonel William Mitchell as the "stormy petrel" of the air service but San Franciscans remember him as "Captain Billy," head of food relief in the disastrous fire and earthquake of 1906. When Mitchell (left) arrived in San Francisco, who should meet him but Alex Williams, his chauffeur of the 1906 days, and now a reserve cavalry officer.

A state station for important ports with research laboratory has been established with a competent staff of research workers in charge. This is in New York they have started high quality of the work planned to give on quack doctors. Way for him is shown in the selection of would it be a good idea to start several men trained under his direction against quack politicians?
