they were coming from the same, same place, so to speak?

A We were strictly into friction materials, brake linings and clutch facings. They were all asbestos products and all asbestos types.

Q And all these asbestos companies and all these asbestos products were under close scrutiny, and this was industries way of kind of fighting back through the AIA?

A I don't know that they are under close scrutiny at that time.

Q All right.

A There is no questions they were later on.

Q And this indicates that this committee, this Asbestos Study Committee could present the brake lining and clutch facing manufacturers' views to both the AIA and to regulatory agencies; correct?

A Yes.

Q Now would I be correct in doing that or even proposing to do that, that what the FMSI would do would not be to present a balanced view, it would be only to advance industries position?

MR. HARKINS: Object to the form.
