

Keogh:

A retired Admiral whom I met in the Cin Port & whence while on vacation, gave me your name so I gave you about here a reprint of the article "Jury Charge" - - - etc. Our conversations had been: possible brain at blood vessel damage from breathing hot fumes from motor exhaust gas and other local fumes, possible formation of fibrin clots at the bubble-lymph interface in the case of diverse suffering from the "Benda"; and the some nature of artificial blood vessel grafts and heart patches. Into which I then subjoin your name entering the conversation & do not recall, as it is not evident why you might be interested in this reprint.
