Eastern Airlines
Wing Tanks.

At the suggestion of Hank Ball I called Dr. Kehoe for his reactions on the cleaning of wing tanks on airplanes of Eastern airlines. It was his feeling that taking a lead in air reading would not solve their problem of skin irritation so unless they insist these samples will not be taken. Dr. Kehoe advised that if I needed any help he would be glad to send some one. I told him I would let him know if I was unable to solve the problem.

After talking to Dr. Kehoe I called Mr. H. Morris safety engineer of Eastern and told him I would be unable to come to Miami at this time but if he would advise me when the next ship was in that I would try to be there to see the tanks when they are first opened until they are entered. He was insistent that I send me some of the material from one of the tanks so when this is received I will send it on to Dr. Kehoe. I will keep you informed as to what transpires
