THE GLIDDEN & JOY VARNISH CO.

With a knowledge of varnish making, and a vision for the future, Francis H. Glidden began doing business in 1870. From the beginning the business grew rapidly. Mr. Glidden soon took as his partner, William Joy, and the firm became known as The Glidden & Joy Varnish Company.

THE GLIDDEN COMPANY

In 1917 the company was reorganized with Adrian D. Joyce as President and R. H. Horsburgh, Secretary and Treasurer. The name was changed to The Glidden Company. From that point on, Glidden expansion has been phenomenal. In 1917 sales were $2,000,000; this year over $45,000,000.

ADRIAN D. JOYCE
President

Mr. Adrian D. Joyce is recognized as one of America's outstanding executives. Although his work has been devoted primarily to the paint industry, Mr. Joyce has also had a wealth of experience in many other types of business. His unusual ability is attested to by the fact that under his skillful direction company sales have jumped from $2,000,000 in 1917 to over $45,000,000 in the current year. Thus, Mr. Joyce's keen foresight and amazing organizing powers have placed us among the leaders of the country's great paint companies. Another outstanding quality possessed by Mr. Joyce is his keen judgment in surrounding himself with able executives of the type of Mr. R. H. Horsburgh, Mr. R. W. Levenhagen, Mr. Dwight P. Joyce, and Mr. W. J. O'Brien . . . all of whom have contributed in a large degree to the development of this great organization.
