Hi Sydney-

The formal request is from the U.S. Oil and Gas Association. They are holding their executive board meeting on May 25 and they would like to request for Scott Pruitt to be their special speaker. They have not set a time for that day, because they want to be nibble with the Administrator's schedule. They are simply asking for 30 minutes of his time: 10-15 minute update on what he is doing at the EPA and then take a couple questions. They expect the attendance to be no more than 40, since it's their executive board, and it will be closed to the press.

The U.S. Oil and Gas Association, while maybe small in presence in DC, has very robust state chapters. The state chapters are the ones primarily representing our nation's most active oil and natural gas drillers, and these state chapter presidents will be attending the executive board meeting.

If you need any further information, please don't hesitate to let me know.

Thank you!

Hi Syd,

This is an invite the Administrator may wish to consider. Can you let me know what kind of timeframe we might be looking at before you all could confirm? I've copied Donelle Harder on this. She's the go to for any possible follow up questions. Thank you so much!
