Dear Mr. Hazard:

Before leaving for Australia a few days ago, Doctor Vorwald asked me to write to you with regard to the shipment of Kynlo which we received from your Berlin, New Jersey, plant on January 6, 1949. The X-ray diffraction pattern of samples from this shipment reveals the same components as found in previous shipments. However, many of the fibers are shorter and appear less flexible. We are wondering whether this has been occasioned by a change in the manufacturing process. If this is the case, we should know so that we will be aware of any unanticipated results which subsequently might appear in the animals that are being exposed.

We would appreciate your advice in this regard.

Sincerely yours,

Lillian F. Blinn (Mrs. A.B.)
