NEW BUSINESS

VCM SHUTDOWN

COMPANY announced plans to shut down the VCM unit by the end of 1968. Further stated that due to a drop in total employment over the last year, and because of the openings produced by this attrition, there will be no layoffs as a result of this shutdown.

UNION asked various questions about decontaminating and dismantling the unit.

September 6, 1968

COMPANY said these problems had not been completely worked out, but they would make every effort to keep the employees informed as plans developed.

UNION asked if any of the employees affected by this shutdown would be assigned to the crafts.

COMPANY said there were no plans to do so at this time, but individual requests would be considered.
