

COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY
College of Physicians and Surgeons
632 West 168th Street, N.Y.
Institute of Public Health

June 7, 1934.

Mr. J. N. Carothers,
Savann Research, Inc.,
Anniston, Alabama.

Dear Mr. Carothers:

It may interest you to know that the dermatitis which was produced by your materials in the case of rabbits cleared up in a couple of weeks, indicating that unless there are repeated exposures the effects are only of a temporary nature. As I said before, I believe that if washing facilities are present and the men are instructed to use them it will do much to supplement the increased ventilation which you have installed.

Yours truly

Frederick B. Flinn

MONS 090427