You are aware that Chemical & Engineering News plans to publish a very inflammatory article on PCB. On Tuesday, I talked to the author and told him where I thought his article was in error and brought up several questions which were not answered in the article.

Today (Wednesday) he said the magazine was not able to pull the story from the next issue, but he had rewritten it and attempted to "de-flame" it.

We can look for the story in the December 13 issue.
