Dear Vigliani:

I am sending herewith a copy of the "Interim Report" to which I referred in our talk of April 12th at Sestriere. There will be a full report later (sometime after June) in which there will be a more elaborate presentation of data. This report, however, gives a reasonably satisfactory account of the situation. It is most unlikely that the final report will differ from the interim report, insofar as the primary issue is concerned.

Let me say how pleasant it was to see you and your charming wife. Our visit was much too brief for my satisfaction, but it was good to see both of you and the beautiful mountains and the flowers. I took the anemone to London with me and gave it to my daughter, who knows and loves the mountains as I do.

Please convey my kindest regards to Mrs. Vigliani. To yourself I send the greetings of Frank Princi and my own as well. I hope you rid yourself of your auditory troubles and return shortly to your usual good health.

My visit to your beautiful country was a brief but delightful interlude, which I should be glad to repeat in a somewhat lengthier manner.

Sincerely yours,

Robert A. Kehoe, M. D.
