REMARKS : RATE THE ACCURACY OF INFORMATION WHEREVER POSSIBLE, I.E. 1. - ACCURATE -, 2. - FAIRLY ACCURATE -, 3. - JUST A RUMOR -

This company is studying the possibility of using fire resistant fluids in all its hydraulic operations. There does not seem to be a particular fire hazard in this sort of operation although we were not able to obtain details of the hydraulic uses. Apparently there is always some secrecy in sugar refinery and also in the alcohol distilleries which are linked to these sugar plants. There must have been a hydraulic fire which they do no want to talk about.

Mr. Colmont was particularly concerned about a fire occurring through the ignition of pools of hydraulic fluid lying under the equipment.

We supplied all the details concerning seals, resistant materials, etc. and B.P. are to submit a quotation to Mr. Colmont

It was difficult to assess the potential but this may be as high as 10,000 to 15,000 litres for a first fill.

Mr. Colmont wishes to know if there would be any toxicity problem when accidentally a small amount of Pydraul would drop off on a few lumps of sugar. Apparently this sometimes happens with mineral oil and they do not seem to bother to discard the contaminated sugar. They wish to know if they can act in the same way with Pydraul.
