Subject: Sv: Meeting request in Stockholm –Chemours –PFAS REACH Restriction –NEW Data on Fluoropolymers & F-gases –2nd half of February?

Dear Cecilia,

Thank you for the phone call and request for a meeting. I have discussed this with my colleagues from the countries working on the restriction proposal. During the last two years, the five countries have put much effort in gathering information on the tonnages, emissions, functionality, alternatives and economic impacts of potential restrictions of PFASs. This information was received in two consultation rounds and in addition several studies by external consultants were performed. In the restriction dossier (including Annexes) the information will be presented and based on this one or more restriction options will be proposed. At this stage we are quite busy with the preparation of the restriction proposal. We are awaiting the compilation of the consequences from the various studies and the information from the two consultations and an analysis of which gaps we need to prioritize filling before we possibly contact the industry with targeted questions.

Please also note that submission of the dossier to the European Chemicals Agency (ECHA) is foreseen in July 2022 and will be followed by a 6 months consultation period where you will have the possibility to comment on the proposal and provide relevant input. After the two scientific committees (RAC and SEAC) have formulated their opinions, the dossier will be handed over to the European Commission and a policy decision will be taken. More information on the restriction procedure can be found on ECHA's webpage: Restriction process - ECHA \(europa.eu\)

Best regards
Jenny

Ämne: Meeting request in Stockholm – Chemours – PFAS REACH Restriction – NEW Data on Fluoropolymers & F-gases – 2nd half of February?

Dear Jenny,

It was a pleasure talking to you over the phone last week. As discussed, my name is Cecilia Thorn and I am partner in charge of Scandinavia in Brussels-based public affairs company EU Focus. I am contacting you in my capacity as EU affairs adviser of The Chemours Company. Chemours is one of the leading global producers of fluoropolymers & fluorinated greenhouse gases (F-gases). Chemours' products portfolios empower a wide range of downstream industries in Europe including semiconductors, automotive (including e-vehicles), hydrogen, 5G, medical devices, heat pumps, air conditioning and insulation, among others.

In the context of the upcoming proposal to restrict PFAS, EU Focus, together with a group of top-level technical consultants (RPA, SCC), has been assisting The Chemours Company in the elaboration of critical technical & socio-economic data on hazard, uses, exposure pathways of a specific group fluoropolymers & F-gases from Chemours' product portfolio. Over the recent months, we have made major progress in building a unique knowledge base on how those chemicals are used and their possible exposure to human & environment.

We wish to have an informal discussion on new information with the Member States authorities, including KemI.

Planning to be in Stockholm in the second half of February, we were wondering if it would be possible set up a face-to-face meeting with you and your experts (also in the presence of Chemours, should you consider useful), to discuss the above.

In the hope this would possible, thank you for letting us know a couple of dates at your convenience.

We look forward to meeting with you in person.

Kind regards

Cecilia
