On February 25-27, 1963 a Symposium On Lead was held at the Kettering Laboratory and eighteen papers were read covering the field of lead occurrence, uses, determination, industrial control, intoxication and air pollution. Recognized authorities from the United States and England participated and we believe you will find the presentation a valuable summation of the latest information available on the subject.

One copy of the Symposium Proceedings is enclosed for you. Additional copies may be ordered from this office at a price of $1.00 per copy postpaid.
