Q Okay. I am sorry. I probably misled you there.

After college, what was your first job?

A As a trainee with the Owens-Illinois Glass Company.

Q You worked with Owens-Illinois Glass Company until the Owens-Corning Fiberglas Company was formed?

A Right.

Q Do you know anything about the circumstances of how the Owens-Corning company was formed?

A Owens-Illinois was doing research on what you can make out of glass besides bottles and Corning was doing research on glass, things they could make other than the Pyrex and top of the stove areas and specialties like Steuben and other things. They wanted to expand in other markets.

We were doing research separately, market research, some manufacturing, early manufacturing, and Owens-Illinois and Corning got together and said this is silly, why don't we put our heads together and develop these products.
