Izzy –

We had a change in governor for this panel. Governor Youngkin had a last-minute change in his schedule, we replaced him with Governor Little of Idaho. Briefings are attached and updated for you. Thank you!

Hi Izzy,

Great news! Would you like to schedule a call to discuss logistics? We are available anytime today or tomorrow. Please send me your availability if so. How would Secretary Wright like to be listed on our agenda and briefing materials? I will also include our policy director on the call for any questions related to the program as well as talking points. Thank you!

Subject: [EXTERNAL] INVITE: RGA Winter Meeting Panel Speaker Request for Feb. 20

Hello –

My name is Laura Ciciarelli, and I am the COO at the Republican Governors Association (RGA). By way of background, the RGA Executive Roundtable program was created in 2008 to bring a select group of CEOs, entrepreneurs, and other leaders together with our governors to both discuss the key issues facing our country and the states, and to support the election and re-election of Republican governors. Our membership continues to expand across the nation and continues to generate a tremendous base in support of our Republican governors and gubernatorial candidates.

We would like to invite soon-to-be Secretary Wright to speak on a panel with 3-4 Republican governors discussing the Administration's work on unleashing America's energy independence. Attached is the event information request form for your records. Below is more information on the location and timing of the panel. The audience will consist of 225-250 of our C-Suite Executive Roundtable members and our Republican governors. This panel will take place at RGA's Executive Roundtable Winter Meeting on Thursday, February 20, and it will be closed to press. Thank you in advance for your consideration.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 2025

10:45 AM – 11:45 AM Executive Roundtable Panel Discussion II: Energy – Changing Course: How Republican Governors will support the Trump Administration's Push for Energy Dominance

Location: Grand Ballroom, Conrad Washington, DC, 950 New York Avenue NW, Washington, DC 20001

Energy – Changing Course: How Republican Governors will support the Trump Administration's Push for Energy Dominance

President Trump is back in office, which means American energy is once again open for business. Over the last four years, the Biden Administration ruled by regulation, leading to higher energy costs across the board and less American-made energy. The good news? President Trump changed course within minutes of being sworn into office and issued multiple executive actions to maximize the responsible use of America's natural resources, limit regulations, and expand innovation to achieve energy dominance. Additionally, President Trump has empowered thoughtful, innovative, and commonsense leaders such as Doug Burgum and Chris Wright to unleash American energy and put the foot on the gas for producers. This panel will discuss how Republican governors have been laying the groundwork to leverage the new direction of the Trump Administration and support future American energy production.

Invited Panel Speakers:

Governor Greg Gianforte (MT) – Moderator (confirmed)
Governor Kelly Armstrong (ND) (invited)
Governor Bill Lee (TN) (invited)
Secretary of the Interior Doug Burgum (invited)
Soon-to-be Secretary of Energy Chris Wright (invited)
