If not complete, they shall be considered as orders for future shipment. All orders for future shipment shall be subject to prices, terms and conditions in effect at the time of shipment.

In case of price advance, all orders on hand for immediate shipment, including back orders, and orders for immediate shipment in mail (postmarks on letters, or filing time on telegrams shall be considered date of receipt) at former prices, and not shipped within five days, (Sundays and holidays excluded) following the date of a price advance, shall be either cancelled or invoiced at the higher prices, regardless of the reason or cause for failure to make shipment within the five-day period.

In the event our prices are reduced, shipments in transit will be given the benefit of the lower prices, provided customer submits as evidence freight bill showing that the shipment actually was in transit, and not in the buyer's stock when our prices declined.
