beginning professor.

In 1974 I was invited to study in Wales in the United Kingdom under a professor by the name of Wagner, J.C. Wagner, and he is the individual who actually discovered the association between asbestos exposure and mesothelioma, cancer of the outer lining of the lung, which I guess we will talk about.

Q Yes.

A So in 1974 I learned from him how you can use animals as models to teach us about human disease.

You can't do experiments on people, so we have to develop animal models that tell us about the disease process, and that is where I learned that understanding.

Q And how long did you spend with Dr. Wagner in that area?

A I was there for about eight weeks, through most of a summer.

Q And as a result of your learning process of the teaching models or, excuse me, the experimental
