and everyone who was sued on those.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. SMITH: We would be certainly happy to.

I won't read all of the names, but you can see there are several claims there.

The next page.

Again, another page. That is fine.

Thank you.

It takes it through the year 1973 when they allegedly discontinued using asbestos in their Kaylo product.

MR. McGOWAN: Judge, I object to the allegedly comments.

THE COURT: It is an editorial comment.

MR. SMITH: I apologize.

MR. McGOWAN: All right.

THE COURT: He apologized for making an editorial comment.

MR. McGOWAN: I accept it.

MR. SMITH: Thank you.

The next document is our OCF Exhibit 1300.
